CALL FOR PAPERS INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

“PSYCHO-SOCIAL DYNAMICS OF DEVELOPEMENT AND EDUCATION CHALLENGES”

24-25 NOVEMBER 2017
Faculty of Social Sciences
University of Tirana
Tirana, Albania

Introduction:

There is no term these days with greater salience and complexity to describe the modern development than “dynamics.” Although the social development is discussed more on economics and politics it is very important in psychological and educational realms as well. Recent advances in social and psychological realms have affected educational strategies. Education is part of rapid dynamics of changing affected by technological developments, social challenges and social crisis in the global context. Education is faced with the challenge to be transformed in harmony with social and psychological challenges in 21 century.

As development is intensified in the 21st century, it is crucial we deepen our understanding of social, psychological and educational dynamics by challenging our assumptions and analyzing it with empirical studies. This 2-day conference will provide an interdisciplinary platform for academics, researchers, policy makers, students and interested community members. With the theme ‘psycho-social dynamics of development and educational challenges, the conference will be a wonderful opportunity to explore current research, trends, and insights about this topic while expanding your professional networks.

This international conference brings together distinguished professors from around the world, academics, psychologists, education specialists, sociologists, and researchers and to share their insights. The goal is to broaden awareness of different contexts in the pursuit of synergies and solutions. We look forward to your active participation in this academic activity of Department of Psychology and Education.
